

Frequently Asked Questions about Credentialing and Privileging

General Questions

What is credentialing?

Credentialing is a term that usually encompasses two separate processes: credentialing and privileging. Credentialing is the primary source verification of a health care practitioner's education, training, work experience, license, etc. Privileging is granting approval for an individual to perform a specific procedure or specific set of privileges based on documented competence in the specialty in which privileges are requested.

Who is credentialed?

The East Hawaii Region Medical Staff Services must credential each individual working in the hospital or clinic setting who is independently responsible for patient care by virtue of their license and hospital authority. Licensed independent practitioners who must be credentialed are physicians, dentists, certified nurse midwives, podiatrists, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, certified registered nurse anesthetists and psychologists.

Why does the hospital and clinics credential?

The East Hawaii Region, like other healthcare organizations, is legally responsible for knowing that individuals providing patient care are qualified and competent to do so. The Joint Commission (TJC), The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), National Committee on Quality Assurance (NCQA), the Hawaii Department of Health and other oversight organizations require that members of the medical and allied health staff be credentialed and privileged before working in the facility.

Can a physician or other practitioner work before completing the credentialing process?

No. The only exception is that any medical student, resident or fellow who is in a training program affiliated with the facilities of the East Hawaii Region can work in the facility without being credentialed as long as their practice does not fall outside the scope of their current training program.

How do I know if I am currently credentialed with the East Hawaii Region or with HHSC?

You can contact the East Hawaii Region Medical Staff Services Department at 808-932-3176.. One of the credentialing specialists can advise you of where your application is in the approval process.

How long will it take to obtain my license?

This question can only be answered with an educated estimate, since the time can vary by profession and the State Medical Board. A rough time line for Hawaii State licensing is 3 to 6 months for domestic graduates and 2 to 8 months for international graduates.

Initial Application Questions

How far in advance of my start date should I begin the credentialing process?

We recommend, if possible, that practitioners submit her/his application six (6) months before her/his anticipated start date, and minimally, three (3) month in advance. This will allow extra time when verification sources do not respond in a timely manner or clarification of discrepancies is required. Please note that a practitioner must have privileges before she/he can be credentialed with the insurers and obtain a billing number. For those practitioners providing services that Hilo Medical Center Clinics will bill for, Hilo Medical Center needs three months for new residency graduates and up to one month for other providers after the provider has her/his privileges to obtain billing numbers.

Is there anything a practitioner can do to speed up the application process?

Yes. Practitioners can greatly influence the length of processing time by contacting their verification sources and asking each source to mail or fax East Hawaii Region's verification requests back as soon as possible. Practitioners can also assist by submitting all of the documents outlined on the checklist on the front of the application.

What are the top three things that hold up the initial appointment process?

Failure to submit all of the documentation needed with the application. The complete listing of documents/submissions is found on the checklist on the front of the application.

- Incomplete information. Please provide complete information – names, addresses, phone numbers, fax numbers and e-mail addresses for past affiliations/current affiliations/education is needed.
- Peer references. Please contact your references and advise them that correspondence will be coming from East Hawaii Region Medical Staff Services Department and impress upon them the importance of a timely response. A current e-mail and/or fax number for your references is helpful in decreasing the turn around time to get a response from your references.

What are the steps in the credentialing process?

The credentialing process can take up to 6 weeks to complete once your applications is ready for review, because the various medical staff committees that are involved in the credentialing process only meet once each month. The parties that must review completed applications are: applicable Chief of Service; Health Professional Affiliates Committee (for all Allied Health Professional members); Credentials Chairperson; Medical Executive Committee and subcommittee of the Board of Directors. The steps in the credentialing process are:

- Practitioner submits complete application for medical staff membership and privileges.
- Medical Staff Services performs primary source verification on practitioner's credentials, education and training.
- Practitioner interviews with Chair of Service (if applicable)

- Medical Staff Services completes primary source verification and uploads file for the Chair of the Service.
- Chair of Service completes file review and recommendation and signs off on privileges.
- Credentials Chairperson completes file review and recommends file for approval to Credentials Committee (meets third Thursday of each month).
- File is presented to Medical Executive Committee (meets 1st Thursday of each month) for review and recommendation to Board of Directors.
- File is presented to subcommittee of Board of Directors (meets 2nd Tuesday of each month) for review and final sign off.

Are temporary privileges available?

The Medical Staff does have an avenue for temporary privileges. For an applicant whose primary source verification is complete and no negative or adverse information was identified during the credentialing process, before action is taken by the Board of Directors on a file, the applicant's Chair of Service can request a limited privilege for a provider. This limited privilege cannot exceed 120 days. A request in writing is submitted to the Medical Staff Services Department who then submits the request to the Chair of Service, Chief of Department, Credentials Chair, Chief of Staff and then to the CEO for review and approval.

Reappointment Questions

What is reappointment?

Reappointment is the process of re-evaluating a practitioner's current competency after they have been appointed to the medical staff or professional staff.

Once I am on staff, why do I need to go through the paperwork again?

The Joint Commission hospital accreditation standards require all practitioners to complete a reappointment process every 24 months. The East Hawaii Region has a duty to ensure that all practitioners on staff are currently competent, and reappointment is the process of re-evaluating competency.

What happens if I do not complete my reappointment paperwork?

If a practitioner does not complete reappointment paperwork on time, the practitioner's reappointment will expire and they can no longer work or see patients in an East Hawaii Region facility.
